

BORROWE GOES FREE.

Principal in the Drayton-Borrowe
Affair Arrested.

He Had Made a Scene at a Very Swell Resort.

Then He Refused to Pay the Cabman—Released This Morning.

Hallett Alphon Borrowe, who was the central figure in the scandal involving J. Coleman Drayton, his wife and their illustrious families, was released from the city of New York this morning after being held in the city of New York for several days. He was released after paying a fine of $100 and after being held in the city of New York for several days. He was released after paying a fine of $100 and after being held in the city of New York for several days.

Very few people knew that Borrowe was on this side of the Atlantic Ocean. Soon after the publication of his arrest, the noted duellist, now deceased, and Mr. Drayton, whom he had challenged to a duel, because of insinuations made by the latter, he returned to Europe with Milburn.

His reappearance in New York, therefore, caused considerable of a sensation, the more so because he was a prisoner. Young Borrowe was arrested last night after causing a considerable disturbance in the city of New York.

Twenty-sixth street. When he arrived there about 8 o'clock, his methods of ordering dishes and his criticisms of the same after they were served, were such that the headwaiter finally, but politely, requested him to withdraw from the establishment.

According to an eye-witness a lady suddenly left the table when Mr. Borrowe grabbed the head waiter by the left leg, and addressing him familiarly as "Billy," declined to get out unless he was put out.

Before the arrival of Policeman Hoffman, of the West Thirtieth street station, who was summoned, Mr. Borrowe was persuaded to enter a cab driven by Thomas Wren.

The fresh air, however, did not seem to make Mr. Borrowe any more peaceable. He was taken to the city of New York, where he was held in the city of New York for several days. He was released after paying a fine of $100 and after being held in the city of New York for several days.

Later in the night he was held in the city of New York for several days. He was released after paying a fine of $100 and after being held in the city of New York for several days.

discharged, and departed in a cab with Mr. Wren. Shortly before 9 o'clock Policeman Hoffman arrived in the cab room and learned that the prisoner had been released. It was then rumored that Borrowe had appeared before Clerk Rosenthal and been discharged, after sending a note to Justice Hogan and setting with the cabman. To an "Evening World" reporter, Justice Hogan said: "The case was the first before me this morning. Borrowe appeared before me, but I didn't know whether it was Borrowe or Smith, and for that matter it made no difference. He paid the cabman, who declined to receive him, and was then discharged. At 23 West Seventeenth street a servant said that the Borrowe family was in the country, and that Hallett Alphon Borrowe hadn't been there for weeks. She pronounced not to know where he was staying."

CITY WATER SUPPLY CUT OFF.

The Company Advanced Rates and Trouble Ensued.

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 31.—The verbal and legal strife between the city of Quincy and the water-works company, which has raged for two years, culminated yesterday in the water company shutting off the city's supply at the fire station, schoolhouses and public buildings. The Mayor ordered the arrest of every man connected with the works, and the city attorney secured an injunction restraining the company from shutting off any further supply.

The city has been threatening to build water-works, and when the present contract with the company was about to expire steps were taken in that direction by the city of Quincy. The company then served notice that the charge for city service would be advanced to $100 a month. The city refused to pay this advance, and hence yesterday's action. About half of the city's supply is now shut off.

Morris, with whom she lives at 23 West Thirtieth street, at 229 West Forty-first street, last night. Morris was unable to leave Bellevue Hospital this morning. He has a long cut on his cheek and a big gash on his left shoulder.

WORKING HARD ON FEISEN.

Large Gangs of Men Labor Day and Night.

Many Alterations Made in Brazil's Torpedo Boat.

CITY ISLAND, N. Y., Oct. 31.—The work of getting ready the steam yacht Feisen for her trip to Brazil on the deck of El Cid is being rapidly pushed.

The long, narrow craft has been hauled out of the water, and lies under cover on the ways at A. B. Wood & Son's ship yard.

Thirty ship carpenters were swarming about her to-day when an "Evening World" reporter called at the yard. Mr. Wood was superintending the work of alteration, and gave the reporter a description of the work to be done.

The most important change is the lengthening of the Feisen's bow seven feet.

This gives her a length over all of 85 feet. This is done, Mr. Wood says, to give extra buoyancy for the support of the torpedo tube, which will be placed on deck eight feet forward of the smokestack.

The cabin top and the pilot-house have been removed so as to bring the Feisen's deck down flush with her plank deck, which will be placed on deck eight feet forward of the smokestack and her armament. There may also be a funnel above the deck to catch the draught and carry it to the boat's furnace.

This is made necessary by the removal of the Feisen's boiler engine.

It was taken out because of the noise it made. The use of the new machinery is put in. The alteration in her machinery will be made by Leschler Wright, of Newark, who built her original engines.

The torpedo tubes and the two small rapid-fire guns, which are being turned out at Providence, R. I., will arrive at City Island the first of next week, and will be put on board the Feisen before she leaves Wood & Son's yard.

The contract for the alterations in the new torpedo-boat hulls for their completion Nov. 15, the day before the time set for El Cid to sail. A heavy freight will have to be paid by Wood & Son should they fail in their contract.

By means of electric lights, the work is carried on by night as well as in the daytime. The shipbuilders work in shifts of thirty men each. Most of the men employed worked on the Feisen when Wood & Son built her, after the designs of Gardner & Mosher.

There is little doubt that the boat will be fully able to sustain her reputation for speed after she has been altered. Mr. Wood says that the removal of her cabin top and pilot-house will counterbalance the added weight of her armament.

The lengthening of her bow may, Mr. Wood thinks, add slightly to her speed. Her total weight after the guns are on board will be about sixteen tons. This should be easily handled by El Cid's heavily constructed davits and powerful derrick engines.

Mr. Wood said today that when the negotiations for the Feisen's purchase were begun by Charles H. Flint, the greatest secrecy was observed. Mr. Flint came down to see the craft, which was laid up with her broken machinery.

Two gentlemen, one of whom answered the description of Admiral Maritz, came along. Mr. Flint introduced them as sportsmen who wished to buy the Feisen, to be used for duck shooting in the Florida Everglades. They thought she would be a splendid craft in which to attack upon a flock of ducks.

The price paid for the Feisen is not known, but Mr. Wood said she cost William H. Woodworth $250,000, and it is only a matter of a small difference of which use he is to make for her which delays her purchase. Wood & Son built the Feisen last year.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—New York's building will be sold. Several months ago Gov. Flower, on behalf of the State, presented the building to the Board of Lady Managers, to be used as the home of a museum for women's work.

The Board of Lady Managers refused to accept the gift, as the Park Commissioners refused to allow the building to remain in Jackson Park. The building will be advertised for sale. So far no bid has been accepted.
